Constitution and Citizenship Day September 17th

We The People commemorate the signing of the United States Constitution on September 17th, 1787 do hereby celebrate with a newly ratified day of remembrance hereby named Constitution Day.

By the institution of this day for remembering our undeniable freedoms as set forth by the United States Constitution, we shall celebrate our citizenship. With pride we know that what we do as citizens in duty to our nation furthers the future of our country.

In true commemoration, we as citizens must act upon our rights and duties to the founding ideals of our country. We must hold fast to our rights as citizens, because that is what makes us Americans.
