Pool your resources!" What strategies are schools using to reign in their default rates? Which of their best practices can you implement on your campus?" The in-person presentations and web tools available to your school from the lenders and guarantors, offer some of the most innovative, best-in-class default prevention and debt management services in the industry. But what is it that makes their work so effective?

P1	FFELP to Direct Loan Transition	Have you made the transition from FFELP to DL yet? Are you still unsure about what you need to do to start this transition or are you in the process of transitioning and have additional questions? This session will provide you with the tools, resources, and conversation to assist you with this transition process.
P2	Good, Better and Best Practices: Scaling and Integrating Student Services in this Difficult Budget Climates	Share tips for creative, innovative or just plain common-sense efficiencies that people have implemented to deal with increased student applications and effects of the current budget situation in financial aid offices on your campus. Sometimes hard times make for great opportunities for needed changes! Join us to share and hear specific challenges faced, what has been or could be done to offset them, or concerns you'd like to throw out to the crowd.
P3	Need Analysis – Hand Calculations	Ever wondered about the formula behind the EFC? Understanding the formula can help you explain components of it to parents and students. Knowing how the formula works can also help you determine when it is necessary to ask for additional clarification on data items.
P4	Professional Judgment	The application of professional judgment (PJ) is one in which we, as aid professionals, have some latitude in applying regulations to benefit students who have unusual circumstances or who have dire needs. PJ can only be applied in specific areas, though. Have you embraced the concept of PJ in your work and in your office? Come to this session to find out what you can do, share what you already do, and see if you learn something new!
